

Fit error is not a delay-selection criterion here

Very short delays can produce nearly collinear clouds and deceptively small geometric errors.
Six descriptive examples only; no population inference or automatic selection.